From April 1, 2014, through September 30, 2014, Neurology[®] received 2,366 new and 646 revised manuscripts (compared to 2,504 new and 601 revised manuscripts during this same period in 2013). During this same interval, we received 4,438 peer reviews (compared to 4,408 during the same period in 2013). Average time from submission to first decision for papers chosen for review was 37 days. We are only able to accept a minority of submitted papers and it is challenging to make decisions about which articles will most benefit our authors and readers and improve patient care. Your thoughtful comments regarding the uniqueness of study populations, novel methods, studies that are especially educational, or new strategies for diagnosing and treating neurologic disease are immensely helpful and highly appreciated, along with your cooperation in returning reviews quickly.

We also appreciate the constructive feedback provided by reviewers of manuscripts submitted for the Resident & Fellow Section of Neurology. Reviews of manuscripts for this section are tremendously helpful to junior authors who strive to improve their clinical and scientific writing abilities.

Please see the Information for Reviewers (IFR) link on the Neurology.org Web site for guidance in reviewing papers. This link provides information on expectations of reviewers regarding confidentiality, timeliness, and reviewer conflicts of interest. The IFR also provides instructions for formatting the comments to editors and authors to enable the most effective communication with authors.

Please send an e-mail message to journal@neurology.org if you would like to do more reviews or if you have never reviewed for the journal but are interested in doing so. Include a description of your credentials and expertise in the areas in which you are qualified to review.

The reviewers listed below with 1 asterisk have reviewed 5 or more papers. Two asterisks indicate that the reviewer has reviewed 10 or more manuscripts. This list includes those reviewers who returned a review or reviews of initial submissions (re-reviews of the same manuscript are not included) between April 1, 2014, and September 30, 2014.
