Submissions to the journal are increasing steadily. During the 6-month interval from October 1, 2015, through March 31, 2016, Neurology[®] received 2,608 new and 608 revised manuscripts (compared to 2,476 new and 600 revised manuscripts during this same period in 2014-2015). We received 4,344 peer reviews (compared to 4,264 during the same period in 2014-2015) for these papers. We can only accept a minority of the manuscripts submitted to us, as we are limited in the number of pages we can publish, and must often make extremely difficult decisions regarding which articles we believe will most benefit readers and improve patient care. You, our reviewers, make these decisions much easier when you make specific comments regarding uniqueness of study populations, novel methods, studies that are especially educational, or new strategies for diagnosing and treating neurologic disease. In addition, the constructive feedback for authors of manuscripts submitted to the Resident and Fellow Section of Neurology is especially helpful to junior authors in improving their clinical and scientific writing abilities. Our gratitude for your dedication to reviewing for Neurology cannot be adequately conveyed.

For guidance in reviewing, see the Information for Reviewers (IFR) link on the www.neurology.org Web site. Click on this link for information on expectations of reviewers regarding confidentiality, timeliness, and reviewer conflicts of interest. The IFR also provides instructions for formatting the comments to editors and authors in order to make communication with authors most effective.

Please send an email message to journal@neurology.org if you would like to do more reviews or if you have never reviewed for the journal but are interested in doing so. Please include a description of your credentials and expertise in the areas in which you are qualified to review.

The reviewers listed below with one asterisk have reviewed 5 or more papers. Two asterisks indicate that the reviewer has reviewed 10 or more manuscripts. This list includes those reviewers who returned a review or reviews of initial submissions (re-reviews of the same manuscript are not included) between October 1, 2015, and March 31, 2016.
